Occasional Paper No. 1, 1973

COPYRIGHT, SOURISSEAU ACADEMY, 1973

PREFACE

The Sourisseau Academy is pleased to present its first Occasional Paper. We hope that it proves to be a forecast of future endeavours: it is scholarly, and it fulfills a need that has long been felt. We trust that subsequent publications meet these criteria as completely as does this union list.

The appearance of Occasional Paper No. 1 fulfills one of the purposes for which the Sourisseau Academy was chartered: "To prepare and disseminate historical scholarship to the university and community, and to present results of research and service activities through publications and other media."

This activity of the Sourisseau Academy is one of many that takes place during the academic year. A generous bequest from the late Miss Eva Sourisseau provided the initial funding for the Academy. We are grateful, in addition, to the members of the Sourisseau family for their suggestions.

It is fitting that our first publication should be a useful tool for further historical research on the history of Santa Clara County. Through the efforts of Jean Wheeler, we now have, at long last, a valuable source of information for the study of this region.

We are also grateful to James Noah, Director of University Relations, Larry Daniello, University Editor, and the University Duplicating Center for their assistance and technical advice.

We invite comments on this publication from our readers.

Listing of Santa Clara County newspapers.

INTRODUCTION

It is the purpose of this Directory to present information about the location and extent of newspaper holdings in Santa Clara County's libraries, museums, historical societies and newspaper publishing companies. A small number of libraries located outside the County also have been included. These were chosen because they have collections which include a substantial number of the County's newspapers.

Few inventories of this type have been published in California. The California State Library is preparing preliminary plans for a Union List of California newspapers to appear in the next year or so. The most recent nation-wide listing appeared in the 1930's and while there is now a concrete plan to update it, estimates are that the project will take at least ten years.

There are no definitions sufficiently clear to guide in the selection of titles in the narrow area between newspapers and periodicals. A very arbitrary decision was made to include many publications, perhaps not in the strictest sense newspapers, if it were felt the contents of the publications contained enough reporting of news to be of use to the researcher. Titles were not eliminated which were of chief interest to narrow interest groups only. It was visualized that the listing would be of use to people who were seeking information about the viewpoints of special groups as well as for those more interested in broader topics.

It has been said that a list of this type serves a two-fold purpose — as a finding aid in helping to locate a specific newspaper and issue for the use of a researcher, and as an inventory function; and in the second, the summing up of the holdings of a group of libraries, there are the implications that may be derived from the inventory. From this listing can be recognized the leading implication — the lack of a systematic policy of collecting newspapers, past and present.

Many of the older newspapers of Santa Clara County have not been kept and few, if any, copies now remain of many others. These older papers have a known value to the researcher but the need for continued collecting is at times less apparent. It recently has been stated that the present day and future seacher will find little of historical value in current County newspapers. This raises questions then of there being little further reason to collect and preserve.

Perhaps the contents of the newspapers will be of less value if the researcher tries to use them as they have been used in the past; but there are a variety of new methods in research and these require a broader range of evidence. There is a new mood of inquiry, a concern for the broad structural characteristics of society, the long-term changes in these characteristics, and a desire to study society as an interacting whole. For example, a great deal of work is being done by medical workers in the field of genetics, and among the sources the newspaper is much used. Also in the field of statistical inquiry there have been some pioneering efforts made in the use of newspaper content. Hopefully, the County newspapers of present day will aid these efforts in the future.

Whatever has been the reason for collecting in the past, there must be coordinated effort in the future with a representative collection of newspapers covering all areas of the County as its goal.

The publishers, many of whom operate marginally profitable enterprises, should be encouraged toward further cooperation by allowing the older papers they presently have to be preserved through microfilming, and to become more aware of the historical value in their current product. The librarians, restricted in their efforts by budgets, must work through a County-wide program to avoid duplication, at least in the newspapers retained. The current cooperation among the library networks could be a further basis for a coordinated policy. There should be more pooling of resources for microfilming as few institutions have complete runs of the older newspapers and even fewer have the funds for individualized projects. Perhaps the bulk of collecting the past, which seems to be more dust than print at this time, must fall on the historical societies and museums. Some attic or old brassbound trunk might yet yield up treasure beyond belief.

The sources used for this compilation were city, county and institutional histories, city and county directories, local and national newspaper directories, union lists of periodicals, letters, printed talks, pamphlets, periodicals, theses, memoirs, old newspapers, both in print and on microfilm, and other materials too numerous to enumerate. Each institution, almost without exception, was visited several times and if a personal inventory of the collection could be made, it was so done. The holdings were checked through July 1973, and corrections made in this listing.

The cooperation of the personnel of each library, historical society, museum, and newspaper company was given graciously and the supportive attitude of the staff of the Sourisseau Academy for California State and Local History was most helpful. To the co-workers, friends, and relatives whose unflagging enthusiasm and encouragement helped to overcome the problems and tedium of compiling a list of this type, an expression of gratitude is hereby given.

It is the hope of the Sourisseau Academy for California State and Local History, and the compiler, that the HISTORICAL DIRECTORY OF SANTA CLARA COUNTY NEWSPAPERS, 1860-1972, will be found to be useful.

LISTING OF SANTA CLARA COUNTY NEWSPAPERS

The listing of newspaper titles that follows is first arranged geographically by city of publication, then alphabetically by title of publication by the first word not a part of the city's name, time of day, or frequency of publication. There are two exceptions: one, if the complete title is the name of the city only, then the title is alphabetized by the first letter of the first word; secondly, if the newspaper title begins with the name of a geographical entity, not the name of the city of publication, then the entity so named is placed alphabetically by the first letter of the first word. The slight variations in format are caused by the different methods of record keeping of the various institutions.

All the loose-bound newsprint is placed first in the listing, alphabetically under each title by identifying symbol designating the individual institutions. The microfilmed material is placed together following the newsprint, also listed alphabetically by symbol.

When a title is not followed by a listing, then no material was found to be extant at this time, or no official collection was located.

SAN JOSE MERCURY

(d) 1861—.

Title has varied: Daily Mercury; Times-Mercury; San Jose Daily Mercury; and, San Jose Mercury Herald. Established in connection with weekly in 1861 (present publisher uses 1851 — this is the date the Weekly Visitor appeared, the parent paper of the weekly San Jose Mercury); discontinued in 1862 after 3 months of publication; Ag 2 1869 the Daily Mercury began again, to be published 9 months before publication suspended from Ap 1870 to Mr 1871. In Mr 1871 purchased The Morning Guide (which had just absorbed The Independent) and began as a daily again. In D 1884 the Times and Mercury consolidated as Times-Mercury, but in Je 1885 this arrangement was dissolved and it again became San Jose Daily Mercury. In 1900 the Herald was purchased by the Hayes family and in 1901 they purchased the Mercury, but not until N 1 1913 did the Herald discontinue its separate publication. At that time it became The San Jose Mercury Herald; from about 1903 the Sunday edition had been Sunday Mercury and Herald. In 1942 merged with the evening News with the News continuing to be published separately. On Je 20 1950 the title became San Jose Mercury. The Hayes family sold their interests in 1952. Publication was suspended from F 15-Je 22 1959 because of an employee strike. At present time: San Jose Mercury 6 days a week, mornings; San Jose News, 6 days a week, evenings; and San Jose Mercury-News, Sunday.

See The Morning Guide; The Independent; Daily Morning Times; San Jose Herald; San Jose Evening News; and San Jose Republic.

SAN JOSE POST

 This title has been used by several, or possibly, all are the same paper. Sources show an East San Jose Post by 1906 which disappeared from the City Directory by 1910. One issue of the Campbell Press in 1907 mentioned the "Campbell Press & East San Jose Post"; by 1916 the Greater San Jose Post appeared giving 1912 as date of origin, disappearing in 1918; by 1912 The San Jose Post appeared variously titled San Jose Post, and The Post, using various dates of origin; by 1920's it was printing editions for Alviso and Milpitas, and by 1930's is listed as being a daily; by the 1950's the entry in the Directory is the Post-Record. Mr. Rose, the present Publisher of the San Jose Post-Record says, "Grandfather Rose purchased the old Alviso Post and the old Daily Record and combined them in 1930 to become the present-day legal paper." The Post-Record, however, uses 1910 as date of origin. The California State Library has established Ap 23 1931 as beginning date of the San Jose Post-Record as a daily.
